JOHN M. RITCHIE, a native son of Utah, prominent farmer and stock breeder of Wasatch County and bishop of the Charleston Ward of the Wasatch Stake, is a prominent representative of a family which has been identified with the civic, industrial and religious progress of this section of Utah since pioneer times.

Bishop Ritchie was born in the Heber community of Wasatch County, October 30, 1867, son of John and Sarah (McFee) Ritchie. His father came to Wasatch County in 1863, and from 1867 was a resident of the Charleston district. He was a hard worker, a high minded citizen, and lived to a very ripe old age, passing away at Charleston in February, 1932, in his eighty-ninth year.

The pioneer public schools of Wasatch County afforded John M. Ritchie his earlier education. Later he took the young men's course and the commercial course in Brigham Young University at Provo, and for two and a half years was a student at the University of Utah. Mr. Ritchie in 1892 began teaching at Charleston, but since 1894 his primary attention has been directed to his growing agricultural and live stock interests. He had specialized in the breeding and raising of fine cattle and horses and his Percheron horses and Hereford cattle have a reputation all over the state. His prominent position as a live stock man received special recognition in 1930, when he was appointed a member of the board of trustees of the Utah State Fair. In 1932 he became president of the Wasatch County Fair Board.

Mr. Ritchie has been a man of tireless public spirit in community affairs. He was the first president of the Charleston Township board and has continued an active member of this board for many years. He has also served for a number of years as township trustee and for twelve years was a member of the board of county commissioners, serving as chairman of the board four terms. During 1897-99 he was absent from his native state on a church mission to Australia. On returning in 1899, he became a counselor to the bishop of his home ward. He filled that position for five years, when he was made bishop of the Charleston Ward, which position he still holds.

Bishop Ritchie married in October, 1891, Miss Sarah E. Wright, daughter of William Wright of the Charleston district. Mrs. Ritchie is a popular worker in her church and community and for eighteen years was counselor to the president of the relief society.

To the marriage of Bishop and Mrs. Ritchie were born nine children. Mabel, who passed away April 30, 1931, was the wife of William H. Hinlin, of Charleston. Another daughter, Vera, died about a year after her marriage, and the son Joseph William died in infancy. The living children are: Lacy, wife of Robert Nowers, of Beaver County; Elden, who married Miss Beth Murdock, of Heber; Clyde, who in 1930 completed a church mission to the State of North Carolina, and is now active in business in Wasatch County and president of the Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association of the Charleston Ward; Horace, on a church mission to Samoa; and Verdell and Relva, who are still
